AMDISA's SAQS

AMDISA has evolved the South Asian Quality Assurance System (SAQS), embodying a professional approach and a South Asian perspective. This process began with a national workshop of Deans and Directors of Management Schools, coordinated by AMDISA's Founder-President Dr Dharni P. Sinha in June, 2000. The workshop deliberations concluded that there is a need to develop such a professional system independent of government agencies, and outlined the broad approaches toward that end. Since then, twelve more national and regional workshops have been organised – see List-I. Many of these involved extensive interactions with Deans and Directors from the South Asian Management Schools, and also with representatives of the European Foundation for Management Development (EFMD), the Association to Advance Collegiate Schools of Business (AACSB) International, and the national management associations in South Asia. AMDISA also received financial support from EFMD during 2004-2006 for developing SAQS.

Briefly, SAQS has emerged as a system which provides a quality assurance and accreditation framework based on regional and international experiences and perspectives. It uses a set of criteria developed from business and management schools of high national and international standing. Its policy is determined by a broad-based SAQS Council. The process is managed by the SAQS Committee. The major inputs for the quality assurance and accreditation process are generated by the management school found eligible for SAQS, through its Self-Assessment Report. This is followed by the visit of the international SAQS Peer Review Team/Committee to the school. Based on the Peer Review Report and Recommendations, the final school-wise decisions are made by the SAQS Accreditation Awarding Committee. All these SAQS forums comprise Chairman and Members who have a wide variety of experiences as senior academic administrators in the South Asian management community. AMDISA Secretariat coordinates SAQS activities.

The various workshops have also been utilised to train about 30 senior academic administrators from the region as Mentors and Peer Reviewers. More Workshops are planned to add another 30 Peer Reviewers and Mentors. Mentors guide the interested schools in developing their Self Assessment Reports. Peer Reviewers provide the Schools real added value by offering them the benefits of an international academic and strategic audit.

So far, seven reputed schools, six from India and one from Pakistan, have availed the services offered by SAQS, and have been accredited by AMDISA – see List-II. Twelve more schools, Eight from India, three from Pakistan and one from Bangladesh, are in various stages of the SAQS process, after having been found eligible for SAQS Committee – see List-III. More schools in the region are expected to seek the academic guidance and strategic audit provided by SAQS in the near future.
